Himalayan Pink Salt Overview

Himalayan Pink Salt is one of the world's most recognized natural mineral salts, sourced from the ancient salt deposits located in the Punjab region of Pakistan. Formed over millions of years, these deposits are known for their distinctive pink color, natural purity, and rich mineral composition.

Unlike heavily processed table salt, Himalayan Pink Salt is carefully extracted and processed to preserve its natural characteristics. Its unique appearance and versatility make it a preferred choice for food, wellness, decorative, and industrial applications worldwide.

Origin & Heritage

The Himalayan Pink Salt deposits originate from ancient sea beds that crystallized millions of years ago. These natural reserves are considered among the largest and purest salt resources in the world.
